Unit holder rights

Each unitholder has an undivided interest in the mutual fund corresponding to the individual's share of the total number of units in the fund issued. Each unit in the mutual fund grants equal rights in the fund. The equal treatment of unitholders is a central pillar of legislation pertaining to mutual funds and the practices that Odin Forvaltning AS follows. Odin Forvaltning AS has further guidelines and procedures in place to ensure equal treatment and justifiable prevention and handling of potential conflicts of interest. These shall protect all unitholders in the fund. Further information about this is available upon request from Odin Forvaltning AS.

A Unit holder is not entitled to demand division or liquidation of the Mutual Fund. The unit holders' liability for the obligations of the fund is limited to their initial deposit.

Unit holders in the mutual funds that are managed by Odin Forvaltning AS elect one third of the Board members. The elections are held at election meetings pursuant to rules specified in the Articles of Association of Odin Forvaltning AS.

Unitholders should periodically receive information about their unit holdings in the fund and the value of these, as well as details of the returns for unitholders during the period and the current year. This information should be provided to unitholders for the first and second half of the year and should be issued no later than one month after the end of each period.

Transfer the management

With the consent of the Financial Supervisory Authority of Norway (Finanstilsynet), Odin Forvaltning AS may transfer the management of the Mutual Fund to another management company. The Financial Supervisory Authority of Norway may set conditions relating to the transfer time and how the transfer should be made public.

Winding up

With the consent of the Financial Supervisory Authority of Norway, Odin Forvaltning AS may decide to wind up a mutual fund that the company manages. In that case, the unitholders will be notified of the liquidation pursuant to Section 5-7 of the Norwegian Securities Fund Act.

Purchase and redemption of units

The fund's units are not listed in a regulated market.

Calculation of net asset value (NAV)

The value of a fund is determined by adding the market value of the fund's financial instruments to the value of the fund's liquid assets/receivables, accrued but not due income and any carry-forward loss, and then subtracting any liabilities and accrued but not due costs, including latent tax liabilities and any payments to unit holders from the fund. Dividing the value of the fund by the number of units gives the net asset value. Where the value of a security is not observable, a value will be set by the management company on an objective and consistent basis.

The fund's net asset value is not calculated when markets in which an essential share of the fund's portfolio are invested are closed. Odin Forvaltning AS is not liable for customers' losses or damage in connection with the calculation of rates that are due to conditions beyond the company's control, e.g. power failure, strike, faults in data processing systems or telecommunications networks or errors committed by the company's sub-contractors.

Announcement of subscription and redemption prices

Information about the asset value is normally published daily by Oslo Stock Exchange (Oslo Børs ASA) to a number of Norwegian newspapers and is also available on our website, www.odinfond.no.

Procedures for subscription (purchase of units) and redemption (sale) or switching between funds

Subscription and redemption or switching take place c/o Odin Forvaltning AS. See also www.odinfond.no. Notification of subscription, redemption or switching of funds may be sent by post or electronic services approved by Odin Forvaltning AS.

Odin Forvaltning may, at its sole discretion, choose to accept subscriptions, redemptions and fund switches from existing unitholders in the fund via other channels of communication.

The fund is normally open for subscription, redemption and switching on all business days in Norway and closed when pricing for the underlying securities is not available for some or all the fund due to national markets being closed.

Subscriptions and redemptions

The deadline for subscriptions, redemptions or fund switches is 12 noon each business day.

Subscriptions can be executed when written notification containing the information required for subscription has been received by Odin Forvaltning AS, an amount equal to the subscription value has been value dated on the fund's account by the deadline and any identity checks have been completed. Notifications regarding subscription to fund units cannot be made conditional or be cancelled.

Pursuant to the Norwegian Cancellation Act of 20 June 2014, no right to cancel applies to purchases of units in securities funds. Units can be subscribed to in the currency of each unit class. See the minimum subscription amounts per unit class below.

To redeem units, written notification of the redemption containing the information required must be received by Odin Forvaltning AS by the deadline. Redemption claims cannot be made conditional or be cancelled. Payments for redeemed units will be made to the specified bank account, normally two business days after the price has been determined. Payments for redeemed units are made in the currency of the unit class.

Prices for subscriptions, redemptions and fund switches will be determined on the same business day, except for funds that have price determination on the next business day.

Suspension of the right of redemption

In the event of a stock exchange closure or other, similar extraordinary circumstances, as well as in cases where it is justified based on unitholders' interests, Odin Forvaltning AS may seek the Financial Supervisory Authority of Norway's consent to wholly or partially postpone the valuation and payment of redemptions. In assessing whether such a measure should be implemented, Odin Forvaltning AS will place particular emphasis on ensuring equal treatment of the fund's unitholders.

If the interests of unitholders or the public interest dictates it, the Financial Supervisory Authority of Norway may also instruct Odin Forvaltning AS to wholly or partially suspend redemptions.

Currency

The fund's basic currency is NOK.

Mechanisms to safeguard the interests of existing unit holders in the fund

To prevent existing unit holders from being harmed because of subscriptions and redemptions that other unit holders make in the fund, the fund can use "swing pricing". This means that the fund's price is adjusted with a swing factor on days when the fund has had net subscription or redemption that exceeds a predetermined proportion of the fund's management capital (threshold value). The threshold value is set to the level where net subscription or redemption is expected to mean that the fund must make portfolio adjustments that incur costs. Net subscription above the set threshold value results in the fund's price being adjusted upwards, and vice versa for net redemption. The fund thus covers the costs because of portfolio adjustments. The size of the swing factor (expressed as a proportion of the fund's value) is based on predefined estimates of average historical trading costs within the fund's investment mandate. The procedure for swing pricing is in accordance with VFF's (the Norwegian Fund and Asset Management Association) industry standard for subscription and redemption, available at www.vff.no.

The fund's benchmark index

The fund's benchmark index is the OMXSB Cap GI.

The benchmark index is adjusted for dividends.

The fund's investment strategy

The fund is an actively managed equity fund and can freely invest in companies that are listed or have their head office or origins in Sweden. The fund manager invests freely within the framework of the mandate in what the fund manager thinks are good, undervalued companies. The fund is index-independent – importance is not attached to the size of the companies or to their weight in the market indices.

Investment decisions are made based on our own thorough company analyses, which are based on a number of different sources, e.g. visits to the companies and conversations with the companies' management. Odin's fund managers look for good, undervalued companies that have good attitudes, also with regard to ethical issues.

In order to improve the creation of wealth and/or highlight the values in the companies in which the funds are invested, Odin's fund managers also spend time exercising shareholders' rights on behalf of the funds' unit holders.

Sustainability

Odin Forvaltning AS has developed guidelines for the responsible management of securities funds that apply to all of the funds under management. The guidelines are based on the UN Principles for Responsible Investment (UN PRI), which Odin Forvaltning AS signed up to in 2012. In line with the guidelines, sustainability risk must form an integral part of all investment decisions. Sustainability risks are environmental, social or governance incidents or circumstances that may have a real or potentially significant negative impact on the value of an investment should they occur. The extent of the sustainability risk varies between companies, sectors, markets, and the time horizon of an investment. Sustainability risk in the fund and in an individual investment consists of exposure to these factors.

Such integration includes ESG analyses of companies before and during an investment period, as well as screening portfolios at regular intervals. The process of selecting the companies the funds will invest in is in part based on these analyses, and companies are not invested in when their sustainability risk is deemed too high. Sustainability risk is one of several factors that affect each investment and the fund's return.

An ESG-analysis of each of the fund's holdings seeks to reduce the fund's sustainability risk, and the risk of negative impact on returns from the occurrence of sustainability-related incidents or circumstances. Odin Forvaltning AS is supposed to be an active owner in the companies the funds invest in and encourages companies to become more sustainable. It does this through voting, direct engagement with the companies and cooperation with other investors.

Odin Forvaltning AS expects companies the funds invest in to conduct their business responsibly and companies that fail to demonstrate an ability or willingness to remedy situations that do not meet expectations will be eliminated from its portfolios. The complete guidelines for the responsible management of securities funds in Odin Forvaltning AS are available from the company's website.

When the board or management of a company demonstrates an inability and/or unwillingness to take account of environmental and social conditions, we view this as a sign of poor corporate governance.

Odin Forvaltning AS is, therefore, committed to ensuring that the companies we invest in practice good management and corporate governance. We believe this contributes to good long-term returns.

This fund is classified as a fund that promotes, among other characteristics, social and environmental characteristics as defined in Article 8 of Regulation (EU) 2019/2088 on sustainability-related disclosures in the financial services sector.

The Fund's strategy to promote sustainability is primarily attained through an active ownership and voting policy to promote ESG, and through the exclusion of certain sectors which have a negative impact on social or environmental factors. For more information on the fund's integration of sustainability see the addendum to the prospectus.

Tax

In the following, a brief account is provided of the tax rules applicable to securities funds and unit holders. The information below does not constitute tax advice. Rules and practice in the field of tax law are continuously evolving and may be subject to change in the future, including with retroactive effect.

Odin Forvaltning AS may be obliged to provide information regarding the unit holders' holdings in Odin's securities funds to Norwegian or foreign authorities notwithstanding any statutory duty of confidentiality.

Please contact your local tax advisor for further information.

Tax rules applicable to the mutual fund

As from the income year 2026, securities funds are generally exempt from tax liability except that securities funds must recognise as income 1 percent of dividends received. The fund's management costs are deductible in the income. Any positive taxable result is taxed at the applicable tax rate for general income.

All other taxation takes place at the unit holder level.

Securities funds are exempt from net wealth tax.

Tax for private investors with tax liability in Norway

Unit holders are taxable both on gains upon the realisation of units in the fund and on distributions from the fund to the unit holder, including distributions in the form of new units. Income, after deduction of the allowance (skjermingsfradrag), is taxed at the applicable tax rate for general income, adjusted by a factor of 1.72, as the fund's equity portion at all times exceeds 80 percent. For 2026, this results in an effective tax rate of 37.84 percent. Losses upon the realisation of fund units are correspondingly deductible (losses are adjusted by the same factor). Switching unit classes within the same fund does not, as a general rule, constitute a taxable realisation of the units.

Fund units are included in the calculation of taxable net wealth at 80 percent of the unit value as of 1 January in the tax assessment year (2026).

Separate rules apply to share savings accounts (aksjesparekonto) and individual pension savings (IPS). See www.odinfond.no for more information.

Company investors (legal persons)

Corporate investors covered by the participation exemption method (fritaksmetoden) are not subject to tax on gains upon the realisation of units in funds whose equity portion at all times exceeds 80 percent, as such gains are considered equity income. Correspondingly, losses are not deductible. Net losses cannot be deducted, neither in the income year nor carried forward to later years.

Tax for unitholders with tax liability outside Norway

Unitholders with tax liabilities in countries other than Norway are encouraged to examine the tax regulations in their respective countries.

Obligations of the custodian institution

The custodian institution's obligations are pursuant to the Norwegian Securities Funds Act and the Act on the Management of Alternative Investment Funds, as well as associated regulations.

The fixed management fee is calculated daily and charged daily. The fixed management fee is equally divided on each unit within the fund's different unit classes.

The total cost price of each individual unit holder's aggregate subscriptions and redemptions in the unit class is calculated on 31st March and 30th September every year.

If the unit holder's total cost price at the time of calculation meets the minimum requirement in a (comparable) unit class with a lower management fee, the customer's asset value will be transferred to this unit class.

If the unit holder's total cost price at the time of calculation does not meet the minimum requirement in the unit class in which the Unit holder has invested, the customer's asset value will be transferred to an (equivalent) unit class where the total cost price meets the minimum requirement.

The transfer of asset value to another comparable unit class shall be registered on the same day that the calculation is performed, and the Unit holder shall be notified as soon as possible.
