Bananas or savings

Comments from the CEO

Sapiens by Yuval Noah Harari has been published in more than 30 other countries since it was first published in English in 2014. In 2015 and 2016 it was the best-selling non-fiction book worldwide. The title is: A Brief History of Humankind. I suppose brief can mean a lot of things, as it is made up of 396 dense pages of text.

It says a lot about the book's popularity that I found it in a petrol station in Lyngå. They did not have a lot of other books in the non-fiction category in their selection.

Sapiens provides an introduction to important historical trends up to our modern era. The book tries to explain how humankind is able to create well-functioning societies in which we work together with millions of strangers. If we compare ourselves with apes, their social systems break down when their groups exceed more than 50 individuals. According to the author, this is because cooperation between apes requires every individual to know the others in the group. 50 is thought to be the upper limit for the number of individuals with whom one can have a personal relationship. This applies to both people and apes.

The book outlines differences between people and apes in a striking manner. I quote from the book: "You could never convince a monkey to give you a banana by promising him limitless bananas after death in monkey heaven."

On first reading, one may get the impression that the author is mocking those of us who believe in, or hope for, a life after this one. However, he means the absolute opposite. Humankind's dramatic progress and ability to work together in large groups completely depends on us sharing a concept of the world, whether that be fundamental questions such as religion and politics, or practical matters such as the value of money. We humans are willing to work hard for paper notes. Such behaviour only works as long as enough people believe in the idea that the notes have value. In a similar way, we are able to create a society where the great majority share common fundamental values on what is right and wrong.

Apes would rather have a banana today than many bananas in the future. Despite the difference between us and the apes, we probably have far more in common than many of us would like to acknowledge.

When choosing between a new car today or saving for a better retirement, most of us give quite a lot of weight to our current needs. At the same time, we know that our future retirement is more dependent on each of us being able to save more profitably than the generations before us.

In ODIN we know that our customers need to save for the future. Therefore, we make every effort to manage our customers' assets in the best possible manner and give them the advice they need. At the heart of everything we do is the goal of providing our customers with opportunities to save simply and profitably.

Of course, sometimes we might think it would be easier to sell bananas, but we will leave that to others.

Risk measurement 30/06/2017

Portfolio	Index
Volatility (3 years)	12,28
Active Share	65,62

The above risk scale shows a link between the risk level for and possible return on an investment in the fund. A high figure means the fund is exposed to a high level of risk, i.e. large share price fluctuations. If the figure is low, the risk level is low. Note that category 1 in the above scale does not mean the investment is risk-free. The historical data used to calculate the risk level do not necessarily provide a reliable picture of the fund's future risk profile. There is no guarantee that the current risk level will remain unchanged. The fund may be included in a different risk category in the future. The risk indicator does not take into account devaluations, political initiatives or sudden fluctuations in the stock market. Risk figures calculated on the basis of returns in the C-Class.

Portfolio	Index
Volatility (3 years)	9,69
Active Share	46,21

The above risk scale shows a link between the risk level for and possible return on an investment in the fund. A high figure means the fund is exposed to a high level of risk, i.e. large share price fluctuations. If the figure is low, the risk level is low. Note that category 1 in the above scale does not mean the investment is risk-free. The historical data used to calculate the risk level do not necessarily provide a reliable picture of the fund's future risk profile. There is no guarantee that the current risk level will remain unchanged. The fund may be included in a different risk category in the future. The risk indicator does not take into account devaluations, political initiatives or sudden fluctuations in the stock market. Risk figures calculated on the basis of returns in the C-Class.

The above risk scale shows a link between the risk level for and possible return on an investment in the fund. A high figure means the fund is exposed to a high level of risk, i.e. large share price fluctuations. If the figure is low, the risk level is low. Note that category 1 in the above scale does not mean the investment is risk-free. The historical data used to calculate the risk level do not necessarily provide a reliable picture of the fund's future risk profile. There is no guarantee that the current risk level will remain unchanged. The fund may be included in a different risk category in the future. The risk indicator does not take into account devaluations, political initiatives or sudden fluctuations in the stock market. Risk figures calculated on the basis of returns in the C-Class.

	Portfolio	Index
Volatility (3 years)	10,42	12,35
Active Share	98,29

The above risk scale shows a link between the risk level for and possible return on an investment in the fund. A high figure means the fund is exposed to a high level of risk, i.e. large share price fluctuations. If the figure is low, the risk level is low. Note that category 1 in the above scale does not mean the investment is risk-free. The historical data used to calculate the risk level do not necessarily provide a reliable picture of the fund's future risk profile. There is no guarantee that the current risk level will remain unchanged. The fund may be included in a different risk category in the future. The risk indicator does not take into account devaluations, political initiatives or sudden fluctuations in the stock market. Risk figures calculated on the basis of returns in the C-Class.

Risk measurement 30/06/2017

Portfolio	Index
Volatility (3 years)	16,08
Active Share	47,66

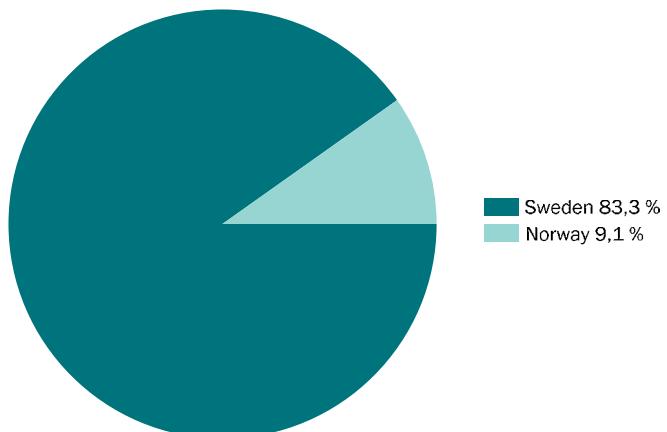

The above risk scale shows a link between the risk level for and possible return on an investment in the fund. A high figure means the fund is exposed to a high level of risk, i.e. large share price fluctuations. If the figure is low, the risk level is low. Note that category 1 in the above scale does not mean the investment is risk-free. The historical data used to calculate the risk level do not necessarily provide a reliable picture of the fund's future risk profile. There is no guarantee that the current risk level will remain unchanged. The fund may be included in a different risk category in the future. The risk indicator does not take into account devaluations, political initiatives or sudden fluctuations in the stock market. Risk figures calculated on the basis of returns in the C-Class.
